

COULD YOU BE A LEADER OR CONVENOR?

If the idea of leading a new group or one of our fascinating range of existing groups appeals to you, why not take the plunge? The qualifications are a desire to take a larger role within our wonderful u3a, and an enthusiasm to motivate people in deepening their knowledge or experience. Many of our groups require no deep academic or practical background, and most of our current leaders would say that they have extended their own knowledge by researching a subject and leading others.

If you feel your gift is organising rather than leadership, there are groups that would value your help as convenor, where you might support a hardworking leader, and learn at the same time!

Why not have a chat with our Groups Coordinator (see Contacts page) to see what possibilities exist. Remember – you do not need to be an expert. In the u3a, infectious enthusiasm is worth more than a PhD!
